REPORT TO P.H.S. MEMBERS

Preston B. Moses, former editor of the Pittsylvania Star-Tribune, was elected as the new president of the Pittsylvania Historical Society for the ensuing year. Moses succeeds Henry Mitchell who gave freely of his time and energy to the leadership of the PHS for the past two years.

Frances Hallam Hurt, author, civic leader, was re-elected vice-president.

Ivelie Saunders, retired Clerk of the Pittsylvania Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, was elected treasurer to replace Catherine Overbey who had been dedicated to the service of the society for the past 18 years.

Jeanette Brown was elected to fill the new office of membership secretary.

Jeanette, a former teacher, has returned to Chatham from Fork Union with her husband Frank "Pete" Brown who retired as football coach at Fork Union Military Academy.

Katherine Buck was re-elected as recording secretary for the tenth consecutive year. She has been a super active member of the Chatham Rescue Squad for the past 20 years. Katherine handles all orders and sales of the PHS publications.

Members of the Board of Directors are Norman Amos, James "Mack" Doss, Perry Mitchell, Alice Overbey and Catherine Overbey.

The PHS has four stated meetings a year on the third Monday night of May, August, November and February.

TENTH ANNUAL CALLANDS FESTIVAL SUCCESSFUL

The PHS Tenth Annual Callands Festival Oct. 5 was another huge success with an estimated attendance of 10,000 -- thanks to James "Mack" Doss, PHS Committee Chairman and assisted by members of the Callands VFD and loyal PHS members.

Adrian O'Conner, Danville Register feature writer, wrote: "I've learned that every festival is pretty much the same, save for the Autumn Potpourri at Callands which calls to mind Pittsylvania County's frontier heritage."

FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

It is good to know that the society is in very good financial condition at this time, although there are some expenditures coming up for repairs and improvements to the 1813 Clerk's Office.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKER FOR NOV. 18 MEETING

The PHS regular meeting set for the third Monday night, November 18 will feature Claude B. Owen Jr., Chief Executive Officer of Dibrell Brothers, Inc., a billion dollar corporation and one of America's successful enterprises.

The Dibrell President, "a good old country boy," will let us in on Dibrell's beginning and interesting background and will tell of the corporation's connection with the county and city. The meeting will be at the 1813 Clerk's office in Chatham beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, November 18.
1775 Tory Story Told
Committee of Safety Elected at Callands

BY FRANCES HURT

Although it is not widely known, Pittsylvania County has its own cradle of the American Revolution — the old courthouse at Callands where on January 26, 1775 numerous inhabitants voted to elect a Committee of Safety to "defend their liberties and their properties at the risk of their lives." In short, they took the bit in their teeth to defy the King.

But for every bold patriot there was apt to be a Tory holding fast to his allegiance to England and the King. Historians such as H.J. Eckenrode, Revolutionary historian of record, believe that there were as many of one as of the other, but after the victory of the Patriots a Tory was hard to find.

Pittsylvania records do not list the name of a single Tory, nor is there any record of Pittsylvania Tories in the State Archives although other counties do list Tory names. Somebody somewhere in Pittsylvania County wiped the slate clean.

Pittsylvania, in fact, must have harbored Tories in considerable number for, according to Governor Thomas Jefferson, they planned an uprising in 1780, by which time people were worn out with the war. In this county citizens were bled white to provision the Continental Army and state militia.

In 1781 Peytoniaurg, first county seat of Pittsylvania before it was cut down in size with Callands as its seat, was made one of the nine Revolutionary supply depots for the entire Continental Army. One William McCraw was named quartermaster for the District, and he knew how to crack the whip. In the Calendar of Virginia State Papers he emerges as shrew, powerful and acerbic. Pittsylvania records show that he impressed horses, wagons, cows, sheep, guns, wheat, corn, flour, meat and whiskey. If it could be used, eaten or drunk, it was in peril from McCraw.

In short order, McCraw was operating a wooden canteen factory supplying canteens for the entire Continental Army. Replicas of those canteens were handmade by Dewey Saunders for the 1976 bicentennial celebration in Pittsylvania. McCraw also set up a foundry to turn out hundreds of horseshoes a day, likewise establishing an armory for weapons repair. McCraw made no friends, but he did the job.

It is interesting to contrast the ardor of those first brave souls in the Callands courthouse in 1775 with the "dangerous insurrection" which was aborted in 1780. Pittsylvania is incredibly fortunate to have an official record of that first meeting, treason in the eyes of the King.

The clerk of the meeting, William Peters Martin, sent a dispatch to the Virginia Gazette which was published February 11, 1775. It reads, "During the time of choosing the said committee, the utmost good order and harmony was observed, and all of the inhabitants of the county then present (which was very numerous) seemed determined and resolute in defending their liberties and properties, at the risk of their lives, and if required, to die by their fellow sufferers (the Bostonians) whose cause they consider their own, and it being mentioned in committee that this county had never contributed their proportionable part towards defraying the expenses of the Delegates who attended on our behalf at the Gen'l Congress, that sum was cheerfully raised and deposited in the hands of Peter Perkins and Benjamin Lankford, Esquire, the Representatives for the said county, to be transmitted to them to whom it ought to have been paid; after which the committee rose, and several loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk, the company dispersed, well pleased with the behavior of the people they had put their confidence in."

As for the "dangerous insurrection," it is noted in a letter sent by Governor Jefferson to Virginia's delegates in the Continental Congress. His letter reads, "A very dangerous insurrection in Pittsylvania was prevented a few days ago by being discovered three days before it was to take place. The Ringleaders were seized in their beds."

Who were those Ringleaders?

Time has closed down on those tumultuous days including the names of those loyal to the King.

NEW EDITOR OF PACKET

I, as President of the Pittsylvania Historical Society, have taken on the task of editing and publishing "The Pittsylvania Packet" - the Society's quarterly publication.

I am fortunate to have the support of Mrs. Lucille Payne, past PHS President, and who with her husband Neil Payne, co-edited "The Quill Pen;" Henry Mitchell, immediate past PHS President; Herman Melton, author, who was the interim editor of the first issue of "The Packet;" Frances Hurt, PHS vice-president and distinguished writer.

All of these society members have pledged to be regular contributors to keep "The Packet" going which is important in serving as the connecting link for the PHS membership.

To you PHS members and readers, I really want your suggestions. If you have a short item, article, clipping (etc.) that you think would fit in a historical publication of this sort, please send it to me. My address is Pittsylvania Historical Society, Preston Moses, P.O. Box 1206, Chatham, Virginia 24531. (NOTE: We have to keep articles comparatively brief because "The Packet" is limited to 16 pages due to cost of postage.)

DID YOU KNOW?

The Pittsylvania Historical Society was organized by the William Pitt Chapter DAR and held its first official meeting the third Monday March 1973 with Col. Charles E.H. Jones elected as the first president.

FOUR COURTHOUSES, EIGHT JAILS

Pittsylvania County has had four different county courthouses and has eight different jails in its history.

At the turn of the century (1900), Chatham had 23 saloons including places where "spirits" could be legally purchased at the county seat.
SOME FACTS ABOUT PHS MEMBERSHIP

The Pittsylvania Historical Society has 436 members listed on its rolls, but this includes 115 who have not yet paid the 1991-92 dues.

It is somewhat surprising to note that a large percent of the Society's members are persons who reside outside of this county. They are for the most part, members who have some connections with the Southside section of Virginia and choose to keep in touch through the PHS. We of the Society here in the county welcome all of "Yo-All."

Here are some interesting facts about the membership: The PHS has members in 43 cities, town and communities in Virginia, with largest number of Virginia members in Chatham (98), Danville (32), Callands and Roanoke.

The membership outside of Virginia is represented in 36 different states in the USA, with the largest numbers in California, Texas, Florida, Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky.

We welcome the newest PHS members who have joined this fall including Mr. and Mrs. L. Ricci Stroud of Danville; Troy Clement of Vernon, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Don Tyler of Gretta; Betty Watson of Chatham; Thomas M. Boaz of Berwyn, Pa.; Ms. Barbara F. Bonham of Cupertino, Cal.; Mrs. W. Conrad Stone of Roanoke; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Scott of Chatham; Ms. Rosa Lee R. Calame of Austin, Texas; Howard Valloance Jones Jr. of Cedar Falls, Iowa; Ms. April Miller of Virginia Beach; Tyson Ashlock of Albequerque, N.M., Mrs. Patsy Willburn of Modesto, Cal.

Signed: Jeanette Brown, PHS membership secretary, Route 1, Box 8K6, Chatham, Va. 24531 - Phone (804)-432-2607.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE 63 YEARS MAKES!

"Pittsylvania County has always been interested in education from the earliest history." That statement was made 63 years ago by Pittsylvania School Superintendent Fletcher Watson and was quoted in an article about the county public schools published in the Danville Register on October 28, 1928.

(The same statement would very likely be made by Superintendent Robert Reece today in 1991.)

But there is a marked difference in the statistics of the county schools of 1928 when compared with the 1991 figures as listed below:

In 1928 there were 192 public schools in Pittsylvania County including nine high schools and two junior high schools. Today there are 21 county schools including four high schools and five middle schools.

Sixty-three years ago the county schools had an enrollment of 18,735 pupils (including 12,587 whites and 6,148 blacks.) Today the integrated schools' total enrollment is 9,627.

The schools had 560 teachers in 1928, whereas today there are 701 teachers.

The total cost of operating the county schools amounted to $475,791 in 1928 compared to the school budget of $38 million for 1991.

Pittsylvania County population in 1928 was 56,493, and today the county population is 55,655 (after 1988 annexation).
Genealogical Treasures
At the Clerk's Office

By HERMAN MELTON and HENRY MITCHELL

Several readers responded to a brief article in the August 1991 Packet about the valuable documents and services available to genealogical researchers in the office of Pittsylvania County's Clerk of Court, located on the first floor of the courthouse in Chatham. This article is a follow-up, enumerating some of the most important records found at the Clerk's Office and was compiled with the assistance of Clerk's Office staff member Ann Roach. This list includes materials most used by genealogical researchers, but is by no means a complete inventory of the Clerk's Office contents.

OLDEST ACTIVE ORGANIZATION

The Pittsylvania Masonic Lodge No. 24 at Chatham is the oldest organization (still active) in the county seat.

Organized August 4, 1788, the first meeting of the Masonic Lodge was held in the county courthouse.

Edmund Randolph Esq., Grandmaster of Masons of Virginia, and at the time the Governor of Virginia, came here to present the charter on September 15, 1788.

Haymes Morgan was elected first worshipful master, Daniel Lowell, Sr.
Warden, John Markham, Jr. Warden, and George Shelton, Secretary.

Later, the Lodge's minutes recorded that the name of Chatham was changed to Competition and had this interesting comment in the minutes:

"Competition, so named because of the divided groups in the town....When the devil tempted Jesus on the mountain, he promised him the rule of the whole world - except Competition, and Satan reserved that place for himself!"
Giles Mill:
Mecca of the frying pan

Some Confederate soldiers had not yet completed the long trek home from Appomattox when James Graves petitioned the Pittsylvania County Court for permission to erect a grist mill on Frying Pan Creek near the Village of Toshes in August of 1865. In so doing, Graves built the first grist mill in Pittsylvania County after the Civil War.

Ruins of the mill remain in a classically beautiful spot near the confluence of Pigg River and Frying Pan Creek. The land on which Graves erected his mill had many prominent owners including the Ward and Graves families.

One early owner was the wealthy Scottish patriot, David Ross, who built a grist mill earlier a half mile downstream at the mouth of the creek in 1769.

Its ruins are also extinct. Ross was an enterprising businessman, and Governor Thomas Jefferson appointed him Commercial Agent during the Revolution because of his ability to procure supplies for the besieged Continental Army.

Ross further distinguished himself by becoming one of the county's most generous donors to the cause. He became overextended before the War of 1812 and his estate was sold to pay his debts upon his death in 1817. The land was purchased by the Wards who also operated a mill on the site of the one constructed earlier by David Ross. The Wards sold the land to the Graves family ca. 1840. Graves Mill became Giles Mill after marriage of Len Giles to Ethel Graves, who inherited the mill from her father ca. 1900.

Frying Pan Creek is subject to violent floods and the raging waters of the St. Francis Day freshet of 1912 wiped out the dam at Len Giles' flourishing grist mill. He and his partner, C.S. Hubbard, contracted with Thomas Haymes of Chatham immediately afterwards to rebuild the 15 foot high rock structure. The dam impounded a half mile long lake that became a Pittsylvania County vacation mecca during the Great Depression. Many county natives remember renting one of the primitive cabins built on the ridge above the lake during the summertime. Boy and Girl Scouts camped on its shores frequently also.

The mill supplied flour and corn meal for the region for many years and many natives can remember when the creaking old wheel was grinding away. Len Giles departed this life during the early 1930's and his remains became the first to be... interred in Hollywood Baptist Church cemetery west of Chatham.

The mill pond became a victim of industrial development when waste from the Bennett, Ramsey and Berger baryse mines (operated by the Barium Corporation of America) upstream silted up the impoundment. Ethel Graves Giles successfully brought suit for damages in the County Court in 1936.

Her troubles were only beginning however. Water-powered grist mills became obsolete due to technological advancements all over the U.S. But the real COUP DE GRACE came during a vicious flood on September 18, 1944. The mill and the upper part of the dam were destroyed. This was the same flood that wiped out Owens Mill, Moses Mill and Ray Mill. Sadly, none of them were rebuilt.

(Note: This article was excerpted from PITTYSYLVANIA'S NINETEENTH CENTURY GRIST MILLS by Herman Melton. His book is scheduled to be released Dec. 1, 1991. Those interested may order it from the author for $25 postpaid by writing to Herman Melton, Route 5, Box 5B, Chatham, Va. 24531.)

Barns - Pride of the Farmers
BY NEIL PAYNE

The barn on a Pittsylvania farm often was larger and more elegant than the home of the farmer who owned it.

Many reasons may be cited for the difference. The homes on many farms were the handiwork of the owners, whereas the barn/stable included the skills of a number of neighbors who had gathered one day for a "barn raising."

Materials for raising a barn usually were right at hand.

Before the day picked for the event, logs and shingles had been procured from adjoining forested lands. Nails (if available) or wooden pegs were on hand for the builders.

Bright and early the skilled and semi-skilled workers gathered for a long day of heavy labor. An experienced individual took charge of the overall operation and assigned tasks in keeping with the aptitudes of the volunteers.

Within the day the host of the builders became the owner of a six or eight stall stable with ample storage for hay and grain overhead. With good fortune the structure would house the animals of the farmer for a half-century or more and stand as an object of pride for all to see.

INDIGENOUS FOODS
BY PATRICIA MITCHELL

Indians in the New World taught early settlers about edible native American plants such as corn, squash, pumpkin, Jerusalem artichoke, and varieties of beans not grown in Europe. Turkey, venison, wild rice, cranberries, blueberries, Concord grapes, maple syrup, black walnuts, pecans and hickory nuts were also novel taste experiences for the Europeans. Sunflowers provided edible seeds.

Plants in Central and South America yielded peppers, sweet potatoes, pineapples, cassavas, papayas, peanuts, avocado and cocoa. From Mexico came vanilla, and Jamaica offered allspice. Even white potatoes and tomatoes originated in South America.

In the creation of recipes the New World produced Brunswick Stew, Philadelphia Pepper Pot, and eventually creme Vichysoisse glace. Potato chips, hamburgers, hot dogs on buns, peanut butter, and Waldorf salad are American inventions, as are Swiss steak, Russian dressing, chow mein, chop suey, and cioppino. The Pennsylvania Dutch (German) people here first prepared apple pandowdy, corn pie, shoo-fly pie, and wilted lettuce salad. And not so long ago Du Pont chemist Earl S. Tupper invented Tupperware, handy for storing tasty foods.
Post Office established at Pittsylvania Court House 1794

A post office was first established at the Pittsylvania County Court House (Chatham) in 1794. Records show that U.S. Postmaster General Timothy Pickering wrote to William Clark, Esq., August 21, 1794, requesting that he "chose a suitable person to be postmaster at Pittsylvania Court House."

Thomas Murdock was chosen to be the first postmaster here, and he served six years.

Records show that the Postmaster for Pittsylvania Court House received compensation of $69.46 for the year 1816 (approximately $5.80 a month). This strongly indicates the postmaster carried on the postal service in connection with some other business such as a store.

The rates of postage for letters in effect at the Pittsylvania Court House Post Office when established were: single letter not exceeding 30 miles, six cents; over 30 miles, not exceeding 60 miles, eight cents; over 60 miles, up to 100 miles, 10 cents.

Then for each additional 50 miles, the postage jumped two cents. Letters going over 450 miles cost 25 cents. There were double rates for double letters.

Packages were charged by weight based on one ounce avoirdupois at the rate of four single letters for each ounce and in that proportion for greater weight.

Letters mailed at the county post office went by "Pony Express." For instance, a letter to Richmond would go first to the Halifax Court House, sorted and routed to Charlotte Court House and then routed to Prince Edward before getting to Richmond.

Rural free delivery was not established in Pittsylvania County until 1899. Before then people had to go to the post offices which were set up in stores in various communities in the county to get the mail.

Persons who served as postmasters at the Pittsylvania County Court House (or Competition, Chatham, etc.) are listed in chronological order: Thomas Murdock, James Hinton, Samuel Lovett, Josiah Ferguson, Francis Dabney, Thomas Rawlins, William Rawlins, David H. Clark, Jno A. Clark, Daveny Haley, Coleman D. Bennett, Milton L. Lovell, James Burton.

Incidentally, the name of the post office here was officially changed to Chatham in 1876.

ARE YOU IN DEBT?

A majority of the people of this country are in debt.

Likely they are making payments on their home or automobile or furniture or appliances, etc. Of course they may still owe their doctor, or borrowed to pay for their child’s education.

But don’t feel badly about being in debt...Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and the third President of the USA died in debt owing $100,000....and he is remembered as a great American!
